

Newtown

our wounds come at first breath in the blood of a garden at rest toil cursed upon our commute commissioned to die in our youth society held captive by the terror fame and fortune look at me skill not on merit my cowardice be i am the shooter set me free